

There, where and here

There, where and here are all words that are linked to place. This means they have similar spellings

I will see you there.

Where did you go?

We are staying here.

Their

Their is used when you are writing or talking about people.

Their clothes are really cool.

They are riding their bikes.

Hear and wear

Hear and wear are words that talk about things people do

I can hear your voice but I can't see you!

I wear this jumper because I like the colour.

They're

They're is used instead of they are. The apostrophe marks the place where the 'a' would usually go.

They're going to the cinema. I wonder which film they're watching.

We're

We're is used instead of we are. The apostrophe marks the place where the 'a' would usually go.

We're travelling by train. I hope we're not too late!
